For wear with an odd skirt there are mercerized cotton materials having a satin stripe and Dresden pattern. These, if trimmed with lace and made with elbow sleeves, make most becoming waists. Mercerized cottons which have all the effectiveness of silk mousseline are sold at 20 cents a yard, and are thirty-four inches wide. They are sheer and light, with dots or sprigged patterns in self color. Gray, pink, green, blue, lavender, vermilion, and jonguli yellow are shown. enders are to be had at 121/2 cents a Printed Lawns.

Printed lawns are also useful for separate waists and for simple summer gowns. These, too, have the pretty Dresden designs so much liked this seagowns. These, too, have the pretty Dresden designs so much liked this season. Usually the ground color is white, with dainty forget-me-nots, roses, and wild flowers in very small sprigs. These fetch from 12 cents to $1 a yard. Wash silks are almost as cheap as any of the other materials for blouses. One can buy a good quality for 30 cents a yard, and while it is not by any means new, very good effects can be had from a pattern of the silk, if only it is smartly made. Light blue, with a small white stripe, makes a good-looking skirt, which is really serviceable for traveling or country wear. Yellow and white, lavender and white, and gray and white are also in good shades. If made with the Byronic collar and little tailored pocket, this is an excellent fabric to use for golf or tennis shirts, and any of the above colorings can be so used. The addition of a Windsor tie in white or black is effective and will give a distinctly French touch to the waist. Five or six yards of silk will be required for the

BE NEAT

The Maid at Work Should Be Dressed in a Manner Suitable to Her Employment.

Freshness and neatness are imparted to the working girl's garb by the use of a livery, and this is the reason for the existence of the livery.

Cap and apron and neatly fitted suit of gingham or black is no more a badge of servitude than is the policeman's uni-form, the soldier's military trappings, or the trained nurse's striped frock and trim cap. These take pride in their livries and so well may the housemaid.

In Choosing a hat.

If a woman has sharp or decidedly prominent features let her avoid hats being the former in favor. Checks and plaids are also in great demand.

Dainty Ginghams.

Dainty Ginghams.

Dainty pink and white ginghams are in the cross lined check. These make up very prettilly for separate shirt waists or suits, and one is sure of their laundering well. Light blue, tan, and green are also to be had in the checked design. Cotton volles having a "pepper and salt" ground are dotted in blue, pink, lavender and green, These may be bought for as low as 15 cents a yard and are thirty-four inches wide. They are said by the dealers to wash and wear excellently. Some of the cross-bar of checks are blue and pink on a white ground, but nearly all have tiny dots of self or other color.

At 3 a yard a better grade of cotton voile is shown, and this, while grounds sometimes sprigged with roebuds or blue sometimes sprigged with roebuds or sometimes sprigged with roebuds or self-colored ingures.
